struck him of asking if he knew what a cunt

live, and upon the Chief Justice putting the additional question whether he knew what on foot was, the witness again admitted his ignorance of the simple fact. Yesterday the Chief Justice, in summing up, commented on the matter, and thought it a peculiar disability for a man who was in the habit of driving about the streets.

AN ACTION FOR NEGLIGENCE.—For several days past the attention of the Chief Justice and a jury of four has been engaged upon an action in which Reuben Eyles, a tram guard, sued W. H. Friend to recover £500 compensation for injuries.

sustained on the afternoon of March 29 last owing, as the plaintiff alleged, to the negligent manner in which defendant drove a horse attached to a buggy. It appeared that on the date in question plaintiff stepped into the road for the purpose of getting on to a tram bound for Bridge-street when he was knocked down by plaintiff's horse and severely injured. The defendant brought evidence in order to prove that the accident was entirely due to plaintiff's own carelessness. The case was concluded yesterday, when the jury, after about three hours' consideration, returned a verdict in favor of the plaintiff.

tion, retained a valuer for the plaintiff, with damages £30. His Honor granted a certificate for costs.

AN ACTION FOR ALLEGED LIBEL—Yesterday a special panel of jury men was summoned to the Banco Court, in order to furnish the 12 jurors to try the action Cowlishaw v. McLeod, in which the plaintiff is suing the defendant to recover £2000 damages for the publication in the defendant's newspaper, the "Bulletin," of an article relating to the loss of the Atacama. When the case was called the Attorney-General (Mr. Warr, Q.C.) applied on behalf of the defendant for a lodge, so I particularly desire to know whether a man can be fined for stealing." The trouble arose through a litigant swearing that he had once been fined £10 for stealing growing fruit. His Honor was incredulous at first; then he admitted that he was blissfully ignorant of what was done in police courts, and then the attendant longing seized him to learn whether a police court had such an enormous power—a power which he never had, that of fining a thief. One barrister said "it was done in police courts." Yes, his Honor believed that from the witness, but could it be done legally? "Certainly not," asserted a second counsel, "while this thought must things were legal in police courts. It seemed comical that so much bewigged and bejewelled talent was set by the ears over a little matter of police court practice. Even Acts of Parliament were quoted with definite results at least until after lunch. Then his Honor solved the mystery and was good enough to explain it to the Court. Once the parloining of growing fruit was not a theft; to constitute stealing the fruit must have been already plucked or fallen, and then stolen from the ground or elsewhere. But the law was amended."

A NICE LEGAL DISTINCTION.—The combined legal lore of a Judge and three barristers yesterday was long unequal to the task of unravelling what to the Judge was an interesting question. "I know," said Mr. Justice Stephen, "that it is not vitally connected with the case, but the question is a peculiar one. I want to add to my knowledge."

A JUDGE'S JOKE.—The usual kaleidoscopic changes of the Divorce Court have temporarily halted, and under the influence of less than one case in two days, where the normal average is about eight cases a day, affairs have fallen flat and interest is fast tapering out—to use a mining term. Consequently, when Mr. Justice Simpson yesterday deliberately perpetrated a joke at the expense of Mr. Kelynaek, one of the jokers in the court,

Mr. Kolynsky was pressing for an answer from a very slow witness, when the latter said, in his characteristic style,—"I don't know what you mean, telling you the truth." "Eh? What do you say," counsel demanded. "He says," said his Honor, with an ill-suppressed smile, "he does not know what you mean telling the truth." In the general laugh which ensued Mr. Kolynsky innocently protested that he had not used the word "truth" at all. He had lost the point of the joke. His Honor repeated his own adaptation of what the witness had said, but by the Mr. Kelysack was on the alert, and whereas at first he really had not caught the humor, as he assumed dullness in order to blunt the point of his Honor's thrust. The score was made, however, and the case went on.

MAILS AND MAIL STEAMERS.—To-morrow the British, German, and French mails, by the Ormuz, Karlsruhe, and Ville de la Giotat respectively are expected to arrive here. The arrival of the steamers at the Semaphore was announced by wire yesterday. The Ormuz continued her INFLUENZA EPIDEMIC AT THE ISLANDS.—When the Birkgate left Suva on the 9th instant for Sydney the Fijian capital was like a fever bed with influenza. For ten days the epidemic had been in full swing, and many of the inhabitants were down with it. "Nearly every household has suffered from it," says a report, "and the hospital, gaol, and the native depots are reeking with it." Included among the sufferers was the resident Government medical officer (Dr. Finucane), and his duties devolved upon Dr. Yu, who had 250 patients under his care at one time. A report from Auckland states that upon arrival there of the Union Company's steamer Upolu from Fiji on the 14th instant, Captain Bennett was found to be seriously suffering from it, and his place had to be taken by Captain McLean, of the Pohorua, who was in Auckland on leave.

RAILWAY TENDERS.—The Railway Commissioners have received five tenders at subside rates for the supply of tallow-wood, hardwood, and bark-timber.

THE DUDLEY COLLIERY DISASTER.—With reference to the colliery disaster at the Dudley mine about three months ago, as it appears from the latest information in the possession of the Mines Department that the mine will probably soon be in a condition to be opened and inspected, the Minister for Mines, Mr. Sydney Smith, has decided to hold a further inquiry as to the cause which led to the explosion. The Coal Mines Regulation Act provides that in cases of this kind the Minister may direct such further investigation to be held should it in his opinion be desirable.

WILLS OF THE WEEK.—The amount of probate and administration duty paid for the week ended June 18 was £272 14s.

GOVERNMENT LABOUR BUREAU.—The engagement of men at the Labour Bureau during the past seven days has been confined to meeting the requirements of private persons. In connection with the work at the Botany Sewage Farm, the periodical selection will probably be made next week.

GAROTTES IN THE CITY.—About 8 o'clock last night two men committed a very daring assault and robbery in Castlereagh-street. It appears that Mr. Skidmore, who has a place of business in that street, was walking towards Hunter-street, when two men suddenly set upon him. They went to work in the ordinary style of garottes. Their victim was thrown to the ground and his pockets were rifled. Besides a sum of money a gold watch and pendant were snatched from his pockets, after he had been subjected to very rough handling.

Luckily the operations of the garrotes were interrupted by Detectives Jones and Fullerton, who ran from different sides of the street. A man was taken to the No. 1 police station, and the stolen property was recovered.

A SKETCHY FALL.—Yesterday afternoon a man named M-Pherson was taken to the Sydney Hospital suffering from injuries he received through falling from some staging at Russell's Wharf, Bathurst-street. He was assisting to load a vessel when he fell into the harbour, striking his head against an object in the descent. Several of his ribs and

DROWNED IN A BATH.—The City Coroner held an inquiry yesterday touching the death of David Maxwell Taylor, a barman, who, on Saturday afternoon, was found dead in a bath at the Court-house Hotel, Darlinghurst. The evidence of several witnesses tended to show that the deceased fell into the bath while suffering from a fit. Dr. Taylor, having examined the body, pronounced it to be a case of convulsions from

UNEMPLOYED AND THE TRADES HALL COUNCIL.

MELBOURNE, Monday.

At the recent meeting of the Trades Hall Council six members of that body were appointed to confer with a like number of unemployed, and to form a committee to draw up a scheme for permanent association to watch the interests of the unemployed, and keep up a continuous agitation for the purpose of forcing the Government to take steps to relieve the unemployed.

The promoters believe that this committee will receive a contribution of 3d per week from each of the persons so employed who secured work as a consequence of the agitation that will be carried on. When the delegates from the Trades Hall and the unemployed meet on a day to be fixed upon by the former the scheme will be discussed.

The proposed scheme is expected to be approved by the unemployed, and to be carried out on every day and forward them to the central treasurer. The promoters expect a liberal response to the appeal, and anticipate that 700 or more men will be found willing to assist the movement in the manner described.

TRAGEDY AT ASCOT VALE.

A sad tragedy at Ascot Vale was brought to light this morning. The body of William Parsons, aged 49, was found in a ditch at the foot of a hill, and a bullet wound in the head, and a pea rife was lying alongside the body. The deceased lived with and worked for his father, George Parsons, a coachmaker in the street. He was very dependent for some time past.

SUDDEN DEATHS.

The body of a middle-aged man, name unknown, was found floating in the Yarra to-day. The body appeared to have been in the water a couple of days.

A Chinese, aged 38, was found in a dying state at Carlton Gardens this morning. He expired soon after his removal to the hospital. The case was apparently one of opium poisoning.

Still another case for the coroner is reported from Auburn. An elderly married lady, named Miss Elizabeth Cook, residing by her late husband, Auburn, was found dead at her home this morning. She had appeared to be dead for 48 hours. No marks of violence were on the body, which was in a sitting position on the floor. The deceased was 60 years of age.
